

Merci! Gracias! Thanks!

 Teaching Children Mathematics would not exist without the voluntary efforts of many mathematics educators. This journal benefits from the experience of those who have served as department editors, reviewers, referees, and members of both the Editorial Panel and Reader Advisory Panels.

Members of the TCM Editorial Panel are appointed by the NCTM president and are approved by the Board of Directors. In April 2013, Marlene Robinson, Jennifer Suh, and Robert Q. Berry III completed their terms on the Editorial Panel. Robinson deserves special commendation for her leadership as Panel chair from May 2012–April 2013. She is also serving as editor of the upcoming October 2013 Focus Issue, titled “Developing & Empowering Teacher Leaders.”

The importance of department editors to the quality of this journal is impossible to overstate. Christine D. Poulsen and Kimberly M. Lilienthal led the Math by the Month department. In Problem Solvers, Jane Wilburne posed challenging new problems each month, and Drew Polly insightfully reviewed solutions to previously published problems. The Technology from the Classroom department benefited from the leadership of Spencer Jamieson, Patricia W. Freeman, and Courtney Baker. Megan Murray and Jane Moore skillfully led the popular Back Talk department.

Each article that appears in TCM is judged for content and style by at least three referees. Reviewers are volunteers who agree to evaluate books and other instructional materials for the journal. Referees and reviewers serve open-ended terms. The names of people serving in these roles as of December 1, 2012, appear on the following list. The effort of all these individuals in maintaining the quality and vitality of Teaching Children Mathematics is very much appreciated.

You, too, can be part of this group. If you are interested in refereeing two or three manuscripts each year or serving as a reviewer of instructional materials, visit www.nctm.org/tcm, click on “Get Involved,” then follow the instructions for “Referee or Review for NCTM.”
