large role.
00:47:42 Emily Kavanagh: I would believe it
00:47:44 Abby Johnson: Love to see sexuality and identity represented, especially for middle school
00:48:15 Catherine Abbott: Do we report negative feelings more than positive feeling? Like songs tend to focus on loss rather than gain of love.
00:48:40 Valerie Adams: what happened
00:48:46 TINA LATTIMER: gasp
00:48:55 Catherine Abbott: By senior year, many students can choose some of their subjects.

00:49:01 Jessica Edrington: Peer pressure, too!
00:49:02 Maria Woehl: puberty and sexuality happened
00:49:07 Bishnu Khanal: What can be the reasons?
00:49:11 Melanie Dickson: I feel like it is because as students get older and they begin to change their mental health changes as well
00:49:11 Cy Mason: They are becoming more independent
00:49:14 Ronald Lubatti: what does engaged mean?
00:49:30 Dave Hankin: Other interests take over as kids get older.....
00:49:39 Stephenia Courtney: ABSOLUTELY
00:49:46 Catherine Abbott: The classroom is NOT the only place where Learning Happens.
00:50:02 Abby Johnson: as kids age they feel rebellious to what they are told to learn rather than what they would want to learn, I feel 00:50:04 Shashidhar Belbase: Learning is connected to many things--- and after all connected to concepts and procedures in mathematics.
00:50:07 Teresa Reddish: Wow.
00:50:14 James Everett: That is insane
00:50:14 Stephenia Courtney: sad
00:50:18 Gricelda Monroy: oh wow :(
00:50:18 Monique Greene: wow
00:50:20 Nick DiGrispino: sad

00:50:23 Melanie Dickson: Wow :(
00:50:23 Scott Ritchie: is this high school?
00:50:27 Christopher Broski: What percent of teachers pronounce their students' names correctly?
00:50:29 TaShawnda Jamison: sad
00:50:29 Seo Lee: Wow. that's so sad.
00:50:31 HILARY OMOKAFE: sad
00:50:36 Linda Koval: That is so sad!
00:50:37 Carol Matsumoto: @Denise This connects to the sessions we just had with the Leadership Conference
00:50:39 Shannen Bunoski: so sad
00:50:43 Kimberly Taylor: NADA
00:50:45 beth blumberg: As a parent... my daughter graduated from Harvard.. feeling that no teacher knew her
00:50:49 Wanda Parker: sad
00:50:53 Shashidhar Belbase: This may happen in large classes...
00:50:54 Carmelita Nalzaro: I know the name of all my students
00:50:57 Stephenia Courtney: not connected
00:51:08 Catherine Abbott: I had work to get my students to learn each other's names at the end of Quarter 1. (I was surprised).
00:51:14 beth blumberg: She was a TA for three different teachers
00:51:40 Carmelita Nalzaro: This must be first thing that a teacher must do
00:51:56 Seo Lee: exactly!
00:51:57 Kimberly Taylor: Where can I find the slides that we are seeing this evening? I'd like to share some of this data with my team
00:52:11 beth blumberg: Tomorrow online at nctm

00:52:32 Kimberly Taylor: TY!
 00:52:45 Stephenia Courtney: Students that love their environment will put forth more effort to learn 00:53:09 Catherine Abbott: There was a definite "silo" effect around my English-learning students. (EL students did not know the names of non-EL students and non-EL students did not know the names of our EL-students.)
 00:53:18 Shashidhar Belbase: Nice skills inventory
 00:53:20 Emily Kavanagh: Exactly Stephenia 00:53:23 Shannen Bunoski: "Students that love their environment will put forth more effort to learn" couldn't agree more!

00:53:33 Stephenia Courtney: get to know and "learn" your students
 00:53:34 Melanie Dickson: They all need to be taught

 00:54:23 Sheila Kirton-Robbins: all
 00:54:33 Stephenia Courtney: taught model practice
 00:54:51 Crystal Bennett: This is a great!
 00:54:55 Catherine Abbott: They don't have to be learned all at once.
 Spiral learning for SEL.
 00:54:57 Amy Cornelius: Agency and Identity
 00:54:59 Ana Alcaraz: Courage
 00:55:05 Cy Mason: Civic Responsibility
 00:55:11 India Puch: Social Skills
 00:55:15 Kimberly Taylor: ID emotions and regulation
 00:55:16 Rachell Scott: social skills
 00:55:19 Payal Arora: Empathy
 00:55:24 Kimberly Taylor: I am with 7th and 8th graders.
 00:55:33 Laura Cranmer: math is perfect for learning perserverence and grit
 00:55:33 Catherine Abbott: SEL is not just for Civics and Social Studies.
 00:55:35 Sheila Kirton-Robbins: empathy

00:55:37 Michael Gougis: Metacognition
00:56:26 Catherine Abbott: @Laura...Math is good for learning multiple solution paths to same or similar answers
00:56:34 Linda Koval: Loved the word: ableism.
00:56:39 Crystal Bennett: So important to teach and build community within our classes. All classes will be somewhat different depending on the students.
00:57:18 Emily Kavanagh: I agree with this wholeheartedly 00:57:25 Catherine Abbott: ...important that students self-identify as problem solvers and mathematicians....
00:57:28 Rosanne Marino: So true Crystal!
00:57:47 Valerie Adams: How does one know when they are bias?
00:57:48 India Puch: Yes!!! Ma'am so very true 00:57:51 Abby Johnson: Im thoroughly enjoying the cultural relevance of this!
00:57:58 Kimberly Taylor: I am wondering if there has been any recent detailed data collected on the trend that girls' confidence in math & science decreases during middle school (6th-8th). It was clear on your graph previously, but I am wondering about specific dynamics. Thanks
00:58:17 beth blumberg: which came first?
00:58:30 T Goh: I agree.
00:58:47 Catherine Abbott: An interesting challenge to interact with "hard to reach" students....
00:58:48 India Puch: I agree
00:58:57 Nick DiGrispino: I agree
00:59:10 C Daniel-Poleon: I agree
00:59:18 Vonda Hicks: True
00:59:31 Valerie Adams: EGo happens
00:59:33 Catherine Doiron: Valerie, you could record yourself and see how you engage with different students so you can counter bias.
00:59:34 Andrew Geller: Never have low expectations.
00:59:44 Jet Yeung: agree
01:00:07 Andrew Geller: Kids may not succeed as much as you/they want, but never expect it.
01:00:28 Catherine Abbott: Interesting....can we track our interactions online with out students? Tick mark frequency.
01:00:42 Crystal Bennett: So true, we must always examine ourselves.
01:00:50 C Daniel-Poleon: Recording oneself is a good idea
01:00:52 Catherine Abbott: Record Zoom session and analyze later.
01:00:55 Kimberly Taylor: I have found asking about student's personal interests and following up on that info has helped giving me an "in." I also try to commend students in my classes about any positive attributes/actions I observe.
Often these kids find math challenging/frustrating and have checked out. We need them to give us a chance first, before they will even entertain the idea of LEARNING with us.
01:00:55 Abby Johnson: Self reflection and correction
01:00:57 Sheila Kirton-Robbins: get to know them as a person
01:01:02 Melanie Dickson: Self-reflection
01:01:04 Glen Sherman: Build strong family connections
01:01:04 Susan Papert: Small group breakout rooms

01:01:05 Tracy Echelle: small group instruction

01:01:05 Valerie Adams: In distance learning you can not hold your bias

01:01:07 Karen Vance: small group

01:01:08 Linda Koval: Check in on everyone.

01:01:10 Catherine Abbott: Reach out to the silent majority.

01:01:10 Emily Kavanagh: Small groups

01:01:10 Amy Cornelius: small group

01:01:12 Scott Ritchie: individual interviews/check-ins

01:01:13 Dave Hankin: make effort to reach out to all students more

01:01:14 Amy Cornelius: Equity sticks

01:01:15 Dawn Lopez: Randomize zoom breakout sessions and work with with each group equally

01:01:17 Nadine Richards-Ramsey: checkins

01:01:20 Maureen Weinmann: small group instruction

01:01:20 Anthony Cirisano: small groups that rotate

01:01:22 Eleanor Henebury: Talk to everyone

01:01:22 Denise Beavers: small groups

01:01:22 HILARY OMOKAFE: Treat everyone equally.

01:01:22 Imelda Valencia: first we need to examine ourselves

01:01:24 Tammy Hedgepeth: build relationships

01:01:24 Catherine Doiron: Connect with each students

01:01:25 India Puch: I have to give it some thought. Great questions.

01:01:27 C Daniel-Poleon: calling them by names

01:01:27 Ana Alcaraz: schedule time with all students 1:1 or small groups

01:01:27 Nick DiGrispino: check ins

01:01:28 Natasha Gambarov: Teacher to peer and peer to peer relationships

01:01:28 Karoulin Aljoris: small classes

01:01:29 Jameel Gheba: communicate with their other teachers

01:01:30 Donna Biddulph: releasing responsibility to students for discussion of ideas

01:01:32 dana dulzo: building personal relationships is harder with distance learning but connecting through their social media might be a start

01:01:33 Realista Rodriguez: Suspend judgement

01:01:34 Maria Woehl: connect with the parents

01:01:35 Tracy Benjamin: engage them during digital lessonj

01:01:36 Lydia Oladosu: Discussion

01:01:36 Felicia Phillips: Proactively check in with students via Email or Zoom chat

01:01:37 Susan Papert: "Thermometer" of feelings at end of class

01:01:38 Dawn Furstenberg: Individual check ins

01:01:39 Vonda Hicks: Building relationships

01:01:39 Julia Messner: Talk to all students and check on their progress

01:01:39 Kyle Boyd: Some tracking of contact & check ins to be intentional about not letting kids fall through the cracks

01:01:42 Abby Johnson: Danielson Domains, engage the family system and community of the students

01:01:42 Ter Turner: In my role as a Reading Recovery Teacher Leader my team has introduced a Student Learner Profile to help teachers understand the lived experiences of our students and families, and forge partnerships with families.

This has resulted in more agency and higher senses of well-being and achievement.

01:01:43 Christy Rose: make sure everyone has an opportunity to participate

01:01:45 Justin McClain: check in with all student maybe weekly or biweekly, for SEL purposes + academic purposes

01:01:46 Payal Arora: Check ins with students and parents.

01:01:46 Jacquelyn Smith: build relationships

01:01:48 Catherine Abbott: relationship, relationship, relationship

01:01:48 Zorica Lloyd: Check to see what supplies students have and need.

01:01:49 Teresa Reddish: Individual check ins

01:01:50 Viragni Chand: Poll and break out rooms and checking in with students

01:01:51 Rosanne Marino: Welcome each student as they enter. Track questions you ask to see if you actually speak will all.

01:01:58 Mary France Imperial: constant communication

01:02:00 Donna Mischiagna: Breakout rooms where students can work together.

01:02:00 Karoulin Aljoris: divide the classes face to face and online

01:02:01 Ronald Lubatti: the vast majority of my students in the junior honor society are in fact girls

01:02:05 Felicia Phillips: Build a strong classroom community online

01:02:08 Imelda Valencia: I feel really sad that teachers are doing these and im might be guilty for some of those 01:02:14 Myra Absin: Relate or connect with them.

01:02:18 Claudette S: one to one time with students

01:02:21 James Everett: connect with your students

01:02:22 Shannen Bunoski: strong classroom community

01:02:26 Jeanetta Glass: I couldn't watch it!

01:02:31 Andrew Geller: I've never seen that video either.

01:02:32 Catherine Doiron: I like your grid asking how everyone is feeling. This would be helpful for students at the start and end of class.

01:02:42 Shannen Bunoski: morning meetings

01:02:45 Charleta White-Fletcher: develop a relationship in order to understand their background

01:02:48 Catherine Abbott: I didn't watch it either....for similar reasons....

01:02:50 beth blumberg: I did not watch it... but I have chosen not to own a TV for 30+ years now

01:02:52 Crystal Bennett: Know and learn about each of our students and share with them.

01:03:01 Viragni Chand: I couldn't watch that video, made me cry

01:03:10 Kimberly Taylor: one-on-one check-ins with each student, focusing on THEM and their social/emotional state at this time. our kids need social & emotional support and coaching with covid and DL.

01:03:14 Tara Sewell: preach, no need to inflict pain onto yourself

01:03:16 Judy Radigan: Circle time first every day for the first several weeks

01:03:47 Linda Koval: Beth, the money you have saved for not having a TV!

01:03:48 Ronald Lubatti: pick up and use the choose love movement program

01:03:54 Nora Chase: I have to look at my own biases before I can combat the differentiated treatment of students.

01:04:09 beth blumberg: We had computers!!

01:04:29 Abby Johnson: Nora, admitting Bias is not easy. Props to you for recognizing your own and making strides. All teachers should.

01:04:33 Laura Cranmer: Use a blog with targeted questions to build community and give an area for students to talk with each other

01:04:36 Valerie Adams: Still happening today

01:04:41 Stephenia Courtney: the feeling of disheartening

01:04:43 Catherine Doiron: Wait, wait, what is the movie?

01:05:12 Kenneth Simonen: Understanding this, I start the year out telling everyone that they CAN DO IT, and every day we start the class out saying something like-Yes I can...This is a year-long process to terminate prior years' negativities.

01:05:14 Kimberly Taylor: Use a blog with targeted questions to build community and give an area for students to talk with each othe
--- LOVE this! on what platform might you do htat?!?!

01:05:17 Dave Hankin: Hopefully, SEL is part of what we're already doing... We need to do it more.

01:05:25 beth blumberg: Starting with having one of my own children in a class... forced me to state out loud that I had a bias and seek another to help counterbalance

01:05:45 Natasha Gambarov: Marlborough district uses Second Step to incorporate SEL into the classroom

01:06:03 Valerie Adams: What does SEL look like in the classroom

01:06:09 Dave Hankin: Seems like those numbers would be higher

01:06:10 Kenneth Simonen: This is a fact I achieved

01:06:14 Linda Koval: Sometimes, my students are so hungry and tired that they can not stay awake in class.

01:06:26 Dawn Lopez: Classdojo has wonderful short, impactful videos and lessons

01:07:05 Abby Johnson: Love restorative circles!

01:07:09 Catherine Abbott: We are NOT the only teacher for each student. Shouldn't we coordinate SEL lessons among a team of teacher? Then build SEL friendly routines to support SEL and content learning.

01:07:12 Linda Koval: Yes, restorative practices!

01:07:23 Shannen Bunoski: restorative circles and practices!

01:07:35 Valerie Adams: great slide

01:07:39 Laura Cranmer: @kimberly - I used Schoology last year for the blog - where I would pose a question (like what are you doing for fun in lock down - and talked about what I was doing - cooking, etc.) It worked great for all kids to share about their pets etc. I will not have schoolog this year so I will have to figure out a new way in google classroom

01:07:51 Catherine Abbott: I LOVE this table.

01:07:52 Kimberly Taylor: At my school we are on first name basis with students and families. This is my first experience with this and I love it. I'd never want anything else.

01:07:55 Wanda Parker: this is good!

01:08:00 Dave Hankin: Catherine -hopefully you meet with your fellow teachers and discuss what should be done together, schoolwide

01:08:10 Kimberly Taylor: one easy step towards personalizing relationships.

01:08:16 Ter Turner: Great Resource: Capacity Building Series Monograph-
The 3rd Teacher Designing the Learning Environment for Mathematics and Literacy, K to 8

01:08:24 Catherine Abbott: @Dave....thumbs up

01:08:51 Catherine Doiron: You need to collaborate with other teachers so you have a common vocabulary.

01:08:52 Kimberly Taylor: Will the chat be avail for download as well?

01:08:57 Beth Kobett: I love this and personally resonate with girls need to understand why.

01:09:04 Susan Papert: Yes!

01:09:06 Natasha Gambarov: @Kimberly, yes, also at nctm

01:09:10 Lesly Brown: Positive reenforcement has to be used every moment with our students.

01:09:18 Chonda Long: Yes, the chat will be available with the recording at www.nctm.org/100

01:09:29 Catherine Abbott: @Catherine Doi...thumbs up.

01:09:34 Kimberly Taylor: TY

01:09:35 Ronald Lubatti: the best preforming students in my grade 8 algebra
one class are girls

01:09:42 Cheryl Ann Doyle E Barran: yes asa child I wanted to know why and how

01:09:46 Nicolette Nalu: This has been such a wonderful presentation thus far!!

01:09:46 Seo Lee: Not only for girls. All students need to understand why

01:10:15 Dave Hankin: We need to make it "cool" to be smart.

01:10:22 Chonda Long: A resource handout will be provided at the end of the session

01:10:37 Catherine Doiron: Love Jo Boaler

01:10:48 Cindy Bryant: <https://www.edu-safe.org/>

01:10:54 Justin McClain: It IS cool to be smart! :) "If you build it, they will come." "Speak it into existence."

01:11:00 Catherine Doiron: youcubed.org

01:11:09 Dave Hankin: The perception that is.

01:11:25 Shannen Bunoski: youcubed.org is awesome!

01:11:33 Amy Cornelius: I love Jo Boaler

01:11:35 Crystal Bennett: The anxiety level of students today is too high! so many outside factors are telling them they are not doing good enough, we gotta flip this!

01:11:43 Catherine Doiron: Taking Jo

01:11:54 Catherine Doiron: Jo's latest online class

01:12:12 Susan Papert: YES

01:12:24 Kimberly Taylor: Jo's latest online class
-- what is the title, please?

01:12:36 Nora Chase: AMEN!

01:12:40 Catherine Abbott: My girls are pretty good identifying their emotions. My guys, not so much.

01:12:44 Susan Papert: This check in is sometimes the only one they have

01:12:46 Ter Turner: Another great resource monograph from Capacity Building Series - Yes I Can Paying Attention to Well-Being

in the Mathematics Classroom

01:12:48 Ter Turner:

<http://www.edu.gov.on.ca/eng/literacynumeracy/inspire/research/math-classroom2018.pdf>

01:13:00 Shannen Bunoski: so important! love the contract idea

01:13:16 Emily Kavanagh: Great Classroom Promises

01:13:16 Catherine Doiron: 21st Century Teaching and Learning - focus on data

01:13:17 James Everett: This has always been a staple of mine from my time running after school programs

01:13:28 Kimberly Taylor: that's a great manipulative

01:13:32 Emily Kavanagh: This would be great for Special Needs students

01:13:35 Natasha Gambarov: Ooh I like that. One for each desk

01:13:41 Nick DiGrispino: I like the emotions wheel

01:13:46 Dave Hankin: mistakes are an opportunity to learn

01:14:04 Catherine Abbott: I love that wheel....great idea.

01:14:04 Karoulin Aljoris: yes emotions very important

01:14:08 Valerie Adams: How do you conduct this when the administration says you must stay on time target and content standards timeline

01:14:09 Shannen Bunoski: awesome manipulative!

01:14:15 Mary Fisher: I have used Padlet for a class. Students post a picture and some information about them. It has helped me put names with faces and learn something about each student. This would be especially helpful in a distance learning situation. BTW - I got this from a NCTM 100 days of Professional Learning.

01:14:20 Felicia Phillips: @Dave: I love that motto! But it's difficult to get some students to buy into it...

01:14:38 Catherine Abbott: I wonder if we can have students create an online version of these foldables.

01:14:38 Natasha Gambarov: The flower is calming

01:14:47 Valerie Adams: When does time permit for these skills

01:14:50 Dawn Furstenberg: i like the flower

01:14:52 Kimberly Taylor: those learning opportunities often need coaching, I have found, to be able to see failure/disappointment/anger as a learning opp.

01:15:08 Dave Hankin: acknowledge their efforts, not just the successes and you get more..

01:15:23 Stephenia Courtney: Sometimes students don't know what they are feeling...The flower is great!

01:15:32 Beth Kobett: 2 x 10s work!

01:15:34 Linda Koval: I love 2 minutes a day!

01:15:49 Tara Sewell: 2X10 works to make projects targeted to their interests

01:15:51 Catherine Doiron: Be specific about what you notice. This shows the student that they are on your radar.

01:15:53 Dawn Furstenberg: Mindfulness breathing exercises

01:15:56 Grace Weissmann: Give them alternatives like a break

01:15:59 Lauren Davenport: I love your resources.

01:16:03 Natasha Gambarov: Identifying their zone of regulation

01:16:05 Sharon Black: Mindfulness

01:16:07 Rachell Scott: I like 2 minutes a day!!
01:16:11 Nick DiGrispino: I agree Catherine
01:16:11 Sheila Kirton-Robbins: Make sure classroom is a safe space, where they will be heard 01:16:12 Mary Fisher: Let them know that you believe in them.
01:16:13 James Everett: in my classroom we had calming center
01:16:14 Abigail Santiago: Music like Mozart
01:16:14 Valerie Adams: I give break time
01:16:14 Tammy Hedgepeth: emoji for how they feel 01:16:15 C Daniel-Poleon: share out
01:16:16 Dawn Lopez: I would like to use the 2x 10
01:16:17 Nadine Richards-Ramsey: breathing exercises and zen yoga poses
01:16:19 Ashley McElroy: mindfulness and break spaces in the classroom
01:16:20 Andrea Potwora: I really like the idea of 2 x 10
01:16:20 Maureen Weinmann: Zones of regulation
01:16:21 Grace Weissmann: Give them a chance to talk about themselves
01:16:22 Susan Papert: Acknowledge their frustration. Ask them to take 1 slow breath. Ask what happened RIGHT BEFORE they got frustrated.
01:16:23 Payal Arora: brain breaks, mindfulness
01:16:23 Jacquelyn Smith: mindfulness
01:16:24 Abby Johnson: accept private messages related to students feelings during zoom calls. Students can be informed they can share their feelings with you when they need to 01:16:25 Dave Hankin: encouragement
01:16:26 Valerie Adams: we meditate yoga
01:16:26 Lesley Collins: The love the resources shared especially the emotions wgeel
01:16:27 Crystal Bennett: Start out each day with sharing/chats
01:16:27 Sharon Black: Personal phone calls to students
01:16:28 dana dulzo: The empathy project, learning to walk in someone else's shoes
01:16:29 Lauren Davenport: Check their emotional wheel for options and let them decide.
01:16:31 Bria Youderian: Virtual meetings where we can talk about things other than classwork
01:16:32 Kenneth Simonen: Understanding this, I start the year out telling everyone that they CAN DO IT, and every day we start the class out saying something like-Yes I can...This is a year-long process to terminate prior years' negativities.
01:16:33 Karen Vance: morning meetings, talking in line, give personal compliments, time to share on zoom
01:16:33 Eleanor Henebury: Just talked with them about life and not necessarily about class.
01:16:34 Justin McClain: I like to use circles. Students and teacher sit in circle, discuss feelings/thoughts/share.
01:16:35 Kimberly Taylor: has anyone experienced a lack/reduction of willingness to participate/share on Zoom?
01:16:35 Wanda Parker: encouragement
01:16:38 Donna Biddulph: I do a daily check in - google form - students 1 to 5 how they are feeling and how available they are to learn. I make sure to check in with all the 1 and 2's

01:16:38 Amy Johnson: RULER!
01:16:39 Lesly Brown: As you see their struggle, you can whisper to them I am here to help you. I use the let's take five deep breaths.
01:16:42 Evelyn Amoah: zones of regulation, greet each morning
01:16:44 Tara Sewell: Student contracts work
01:16:44 Stephenia Courtney: ask them and give them to talk UNINTERRUPTED
01:16:44 Maureen Weinmann: Mindfulness instruction - develop skills
01:16:45 Sharon Black: encouragement
01:16:45 TaShawnda Jamison: provide a safe environment
01:16:46 Felicia Phillips: In the pre-COVID world, a walk-and-talk or a chew-and-chat would usually be effective. Trying to figure out what those look like in the online world.
01:16:47 Lydia Oladosu: teach them the emotions
01:16:48 Catherine Abbott: If you ask about emotions....follow up if you see someone is feeling down or angry.
01:16:49 Jet Yeung: music is best element for relaxation for students
01:16:50 Christine Yokoyama: Ask how they feel today?
01:16:51 Dawn Lopez: I will continue to use daily check ins
01:16:51 Sharon Black: positive talk
01:16:53 Lisa Hart: meet individually with anxious students - online learning
01:16:53 Macobia Harris: Let them know that they are in a safe place and that they matter.
01:16:55 beth blumberg: we have been discussing favorite flavors of ice cream...
01:16:55 Sheila Turk: I love the 2 X minutes during a virtual morning meeting. I also like the Wheel and flower. Tell jokes have fun and build relationships together.
01:16:56 Monique Greene: writing to express what's going on 01:16:58 Jacqueline Colbourne: Daily motivation and encouragement
01:16:58 Linda Koval: Let them know that you are here for them.
01:17:02 Evelyn Amoah: calming music
01:17:03 Viragni Chand: Google form check in on "how they are feeling"
01:17:04 Lydia Oladosu: encourage them that they can do it.
01:17:05 Meg Dugan: encouragement
01:17:05 Michael Gougis: Allow them to speak about their experiences 01:17:06 Guadalupe Alvidrez: SEL lessons daily and staying after Zoom class for students that want to stay and share about anything.
01:17:06 Judy Radigan: Geet every every day!
01:17:09 Lesly Brown: Give a break and let them laugh and move a little.
01:17:12 Tammy Hedgepeth: journal write
01:17:12 Lori LaRocco: listen, encouragement
01:17:13 C Daniel-Poleon: its ok to show emotions
01:17:14 Jeff Williams: model action
01:17:15 Dawn Lopez: Make projects and assignments meaningful 01:17:16 Kimberly Taylor: Amen!
01:17:23 Julia Messner: encourage them to ask questions
01:17:29 Wanda Parker: yes!
01:17:31 Jeff Shih: =

01:17:34 Kimberly Taylor: only meaningful/purposeful work!
01:17:35 Catherine Abbott: Just for fun activities....
01:17:37 Stephenia Courtney: you can learn a lot from your students by listening
01:17:38 Donna Biddulph: I have lunch with students - in small group - I put on table cloth and fancy napkins - we just talk 01:17:45 Victoria Yang: Love this statement.
01:18:03 Niniek Budhiastuti: the lunch idea is great
01:18:06 Abby Johnson: any other first year teachers here?
01:18:07 Dave Hankin: plan for success
01:18:09 Catherine Abbott: I love the "lunch" idea. Thanks.
01:18:10 Linda Koval: That is such a great idea, Donna.
01:18:11 Cindy Bryant: Love your fancy lunch @Donna
01:18:18 Stephenia Courtney: teach with empathy and patience
01:18:25 Trena Wilkerson: Powerful statement and one that supports access and equity for each and every student!
01:18:26 Donna Biddulph: During distance learning, I did 1 to 1 meet ups with students that I identified as emotionally fragile with distance learning
01:18:35 dana dulzo: love this slide
01:18:35 Emily Kavanagh: Love this
01:18:50 Mary France Imperial: love it
01:19:01 Chonda Long: Yes, the chat will be available with the recording tomorrow at www.nctm.org/100
01:19:09 Valerie Adams: gifted students
01:19:13 Jet Yeung: This phase is so true. we need to teach empathy
01:19:20 Valerie Adams: crystal children
01:19:24 Catherine Abbott: visual learning online interaction
01:19:27 Linda Koval: Live on their device.
01:19:28 Stephenia Courtney: we should share our CO-VID with the students

01:19:30 Seo Lee: I love the slide about how do you feel. I would like to use it for my students during distance learning.
01:19:55 Catherine Abbott: Routine..."My favorite No...".
01:20:05 Beth Kobett: Love the Strengths-based feedback!
01:20:11 Catherine Bronikowski: during distance learning many of my 11th and 12th graders increased their job hours - so I scheduled some evening Google Meets office hours
01:20:13 Myra Absin: Involve all students by touching their hearts.
01:20:15 C Daniel-Poleon: validation and praise go a long way
01:20:15 Jessica Edrington: @Catherine Abbott - I LOVE My Favorite No!!
01:20:16 Crystal Bennett: Give students little cards, stickers, smiles, thumbs up, clappers...many are going to miss the hugs and high fives.
01:20:25 Sandra Pray: My zoom worked great right up to the last week- 23/25 students attending whole class meetings. If someone wasn't there they got on their phones and texted or called missing person to remind them to zoom in! Math help sessions you had to show up for at least one each week- helped each other when stuck on any problems!
01:20:36 Nonye Obiora: Great in coaching conversations too
01:20:53 Cindy Bryant: Love that @Sandra
01:20:58 Evelyn Amoah: any online "stickers"?

01:21:11 Catherine Doiron: Great, Cath B. So many teachers scheduled morning online classes when students would not be awake.

01:21:42 Shannen Bunoski: office hours on google meet!

01:21:59 Catherine Abbott: What problem do you want to solve when you grow up? Great question.

01:22:04 beth blumberg: I love the idea of math help sessions

01:22:12 Catherine Bronikowski: Cath D. - many of my HS students were most active on school work after 9 PM

01:22:15 Catherine Doiron: Sandra P - my students also would call each other to remind them to come to meetings. Built relationships.

01:22:17 Regina Williams: yeah PBL!!!

01:22:20 Payal Arora: love that - what problems do you want to solve?

01:22:22 Lorie Huff: I love that - What problem do you want to help solve? Powerful challenge.

01:22:36 C Daniel-Poleon: What problem.....? like that 01:22:39 Linda Koval: Agreed, Payal.

01:22:47 Cindy Bryant: My Favorite No
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=uuDjke-p4Co>

01:23:06 Susan Papert: Many countries use this strategy...we need to catch up

01:23:11 Viragni Chand: My zoom first meeting at 9:00 am meeting were great 28/32 students or 20/23 etc. I didn't do any early morning meetings, f

01:23:18 Jamica Craig: Along the lines of "what problem..?" is "what questions do you have?"

01:23:36 Viragni Chand: first meeting at 9:00 am.

01:23:51 Cindy Bryant: Sure thing @Katherine

01:24:15 Valerie Adams: So much information I need to redo this webinar in the recording. Full of important information

01:24:38 Jessica Edrington: @ValerieAdams - totally agree!
