00:21:12 Sarah Fluegemann: Hi from Plymouth, Michigan!!
00:21:15 Mary Takle: Hello from Bellevue, Washington
00:21:42 Jeanetta Glass: Hi from Memphis, TN
00:21:45 Patrick Montague: Hello from Weslaco, Tx
00:21:46 Monique Cabellon: Hello from Renton, WA
00:21:52 Kristina Grannan: Evansville, IN 00:22:22 Shannon Jones: Hello from Washington DC!
00:22:34 Dixie McCartney: Hi from Salem, OR!
00:22:39 David Barnes: If you look in the Chat box you can change the TO:
to All Panelists AND ATTENDEES. Then we all can see your comments.
00:22:59 Ryan Kinstedt: Hello from the Oregon Coast
00:23:01 Amy Tucker: Hi from Wayne, Maine
00:23:31 JUDY DUNMIRE: Hi from Arkansas!
00:23:38 Alicia Broadwater: Hi from Virginia Beach, VA

00:23:48 Karen Currie: Hi from Sunnyvale CA
00:23:54 Daniel Irving: Hello from North Providence, RI
00:24:03 Monica Tienda: Hola from Detroit!!
00:24:15 Hong Pun: Hello from San Jose, California
00:24:17 Laura Gunn: HI from Cincinnati, Ohio
00:24:42 Daniel Wong: Hello all, from NZ.
00:24:43 Chonda Long: Do you have a question?
00:24:53 Chonda Long: Do you have a question?
00:24:57 rachel wingo: Rachel Wingo, Providence, Ky
00:24:59 David Barnes: This presentation is also streaming on the NCTM
Facebook page.
00:25:04 Jeff Shih: yay senior class! :)
00:25:27 JUDY DUNMIRE: Woohoo, Lorie Huff!
00:25:53 Monica Tienda: Jen!!
00:26:01 Chonda Long: If you have a specific question please type it in the Q and A box.
00:26:12 Chonda Long: Please wait to raise your hand
00:26:24 Chonda Long: until Robert poses a question
00:26:48 DesLey Plaisance: Congratulations Trena!
00:26:57 David Barnes: These presentations are available for free to all and the video of presentations will be available following (think the next afternoon.)
00:27:02 Monica Tienda: Michigan-woot!woot!
00:27:07 Stephenia Courtney: Nice to see you Dr. Shih! I haven't seen you at UNLV in forever!
00:27:09 Chonda Long: Yes, tomorrow afternoon
00:27:50 Benjamin Sinwell: Go Cindy!!!
00:27:59 Trena Wilkerson: Thank you! Looking forward to serving NCTM and working with Robert, the Board, the Staff and all math educators everywhere!
00:28:11 Monica Tienda: Rock on, Cindy!!
00:28:18 David Barnes: Cindy ROCKS!
00:28:23 Beth Kobett: CINDY IS A ROCK STAR!
00:28:24 Carol Matsumoto: Thanks everyone!
00:28:36 Valorri Rabitoy: Your collective work is very much appreciated!
00:28:52 T Greenwood: Thank you for this opportunity!
00:29:08 David Barnes: Jeff Shih and Beth Kobett! That is you!
00:29:24 Carol Matsumoto: Thank you to the Centennial Conference Committee for all your hard work.
00:29:44 Teena Daniels: Thank you for this awesome way to connect with educators! Love this forum.
00:30:00 Melissa Wells: Yes thank you!
00:30:02 Philip Mojares: Thank you for this mechanism of letting us learn while there is a school suspension. Great job!
00:30:04 Beth Kobett: Dave Barnes!
00:30:12 Amy Tucker: I so appreciate this. Thank you for sharing this opportunity!
00:31:11 Ma Ismela Nava: are we getting list of the topics that we can attend to?
00:31:22 Nancy Horowitz: This is greatly appreciated. Love the organization.

00:31:28 Amy Tucker: Nctm.org/100

00:31:47 Carol Matsumoto: Yeah Monday!

00:32:10 Monica Tienda: Me too Monday!!

00:32:42 David Barnes: @Ma - The list of session will be at www.nctm.org/100 and will be update so there are always the next couple of weeks of speakers up there.

00:32:44 Heather Parker: super excited about tomorrow's session!

00:32:57 Isaac Logeman: How soon after a live session will the recording be uploaded?

00:33:12 Carol Matsumoto: Register early. Don't wait. Sessions can get full quickly.

00:33:52 Karen Campe: Yes @Carol Matsumoto but they are also being streamed on FB and recorded.

00:35:16 Chonda Long: Recording will be available www.nctm.org/100 by tomorrow afternoon

00:35:33 Deb Luther: This is FABULOUS! Thank you!

00:36:06 David Barnes: #NCTM100

00:37:12 JUDY DUNMIRE: I AM LOVING THE NEW JOURNAL!!!!

00:38:16 Kim Smith: Oh...I just remember that I prepaid for those when I registered.

00:38:18 Mary Ann Davis: Did the new journal replace the others? Or are the elementary, middle, and hs journals continuing?

00:38:31 JUDY DUNMIRE: We are using the HS book as a guide in our district.
<3

00:39:14 David Barnes: HI Lorie. If you look at the chat window, click on the shaded button and change it To: All panelists and attendees. That way Judy can see your chat posts.

00:39:47 DeAnn Huinker: The new journal, "Mathematics Learning and Teaching" (MTLT) do replace the other journals. Past issues of TCM, MTMS, MT are available in the digital archives.

00:40:20 DeAnn Huinker: Meant to say "Mathematics Teacher: Learning and Teaching" (MTLT)

00:43:32 Chonda Long: Do you have a question

00:43:53 Noël Butler: I think it's really all three in various stages

00:44:05 William Speer: Forced choice would be choice B, but really all three.

00:44:25 Therese Arsenault: agree – overlap of aspects of all 3 00:44:26 Benjamin Sinwell: I agree with you William Speer.

00:45:01 William Speer: Proud to hear that you do, Ben.

00:45:53 Robyn Headifen: a trait - some are naturally more resilient is that an outcome as a result of a process of becoming more resilient ?

00:46:23 Amanda Jansen: I saw this on Twitter, too – the teacher outside the student's door – it was very sweet.

00:48:29 Sheila McCoy: Dedication

00:51:14 Kimberly Rimbey: How many people have signed up for the trial membership so far?

00:51:37 Chonda Long: Not sure how many people have signed up yet

00:52:18 Kimberly Rimbey: I've shared with over about 50 district leaders so far as well as my whole district. Can't wait to hear!!! Thanks to NCTM for doing that...

00:52:56 Karen Currie: Our students have used flip grid to share ideas with their classmates and respond to each other as well.

00:53:00 Charles Weber: Padlet for sharing what students are up to

00:53:08 Kim Smith: Our teachers are using Screencastify

00:53:11 Deb Luther: google meet, google classroom, flip grid

00:53:13 Kimberly Rimbey: SeeSaw and Flipgrid

00:53:15 Stephenia Courtney: Google Chat

00:53:19 Robyn Headifen: flipgrid

00:53:20 Sarah Pye: google classroom

00:53:21 Susan Roberts: flipgrid, dojo, google meetings

00:53:22 Benjamin Sinwell: Daily checkin questions online. From how are you? to What do you need? I then respond to each student individually in private.

00:53:24 Kim Ellis: I use Zoom to connect to my class and each student uses their mics to answer questions or help each other

00:53:24 Hong Pun: Zoom - Chat

00:53:24 Ashley Cusick: Google classroom comments, virtual spirit weeks on social media

00:53:25 Charles Weber: Check-in questions during google hangouts where ALL students share out

00:53:26 Heather Parker: google meet, canvas conferences

00:53:26 Monique Cabellon: Seesaw and Teams

00:53:26 Kim Smith: Desmos and Desmos Starters

00:53:28 Stephenia Courtney: Google Classroom

00:53:28 Isaac Logeman: During a live class on zoom for example, split students into breakout rooms and allow them to share how they are doing with each other.

00:53:28 Christine Tucker: Our district is using PowerSchool, but we started to use Flipgrid

00:53:29 Kerrie Becker: Flipgrid, Microsoft Teams

00:53:30 Jennifer Coleman: flip grid, padlet

00:53:30 Deb Luther: Posting pictures - see saw

00:53:31 Cami Williams: We use Padlet to stay connected with coworkers. I'm sure it would be great for kids.

00:53:32 Jenny Sagrillo: Zoom, padlet

00:53:33 Leslie Sorace: Google Classroom, Google Meet, Hangout

00:53:34 Lorie Huff: Padlet, flipgrid, Google features

00:53:34 Jennifer Coleman: see saw

00:53:35 Carolyn White: Break out rooms in Zoom for studnets to discuss.

00:53:35 Philip Mojares: I am using myopenmath.com, moodle, seesaw

00:53:36 Jana Dean: I hosted my first ever Zoom class today. The lesson was about Memes that go Viral I asked students to share a favorite meme

00:53:37 Robyn Headifen: zoom breakout rooms -

00:53:37 Therese Arsenault: See saw

00:53:38 rachel wingo: facebook live, google classroom, google meet, seesaw, screencastify

00:53:40 Sarah Fluegemann: Google classroom and google form check in!

00:53:41 Therese Arsenault: zoom

00:53:41 Valorri Rabitoy: Our district is using MS Teams... students can currently chat with each other in a session... next week, they will be able to use video as well!

00:53:41 Amy Clinton: virtual morning meetings in google hangouts

00:53:41 Nick Vanderhyde: Daily check in videos

00:53:42 Karen Campe: Starting each online learning session with google form: how are you doing? What is making you feel happy today?

00:53:42 Mary Takle: Microsoft Teams

00:53:43 Kimberly Rimbey: Office Hours with Hangouts

00:53:43 Jeanetta Glass: Remind

00:53:43 Michelle Lo: not forcing synchronous learning - if students have to take care of sibilings during class, they might be comfortable sharing their video or being their whole selves

00:53:44 Jennifer Coleman: zoom breakout rooms

00:53:46 Kerrie Becker: wakelet

00:53:46 Mary Takle: desmos

00:53:47 Toni Galassini: Hangouts Meet

00:53:47 Alicia Broadwater: Zoom, Google Meet, Schoology Conferences, Flipgrid, SeeSaw, Dojo

00:53:48 Nancy Horowitz: breakout sessions in zoom

00:53:49 Diana Volanti: ZOOM< Google Meet

00:53:49 Deb Luther: just heard about youtube live

00:53:49 Sheryl Peterson: My students and I have a few avenues to share with each other. We have used flip grid and zoom meeting. However, we have students we have not seen because lack of internet access.

00:53:50 JUDY DUNMIRE: Our district requires us to use Google Classroom. We have a space, outside of their modules, for students to share - how have they been spending their time? "Color day" was to share something colorful they created.

00:53:50 Ryan Kinstedt: Zoom and shared google docs

00:53:53 rachel wingo: class tag, remind

00:53:53 Mary Takle: OneNote

00:53:55 rachel wingo: remind

00:53:55 Jennifer Coleman: google sldies

00:53:57 Jaton Kershaw: Zoom and google meets

00:53:58 Kristina Grannan: Webex

00:54:00 Tanasha Cockburn: REmind

00:54:01 Susan Roberts: canvas as well

00:54:05 Stephenia Courtney: Response to video links

00:54:05 Diana Volanti: Google Classroom

00:54:07 Carolyn White: Break out rooms in ZOOM

00:54:08 Valorri Rabitoy: OneNote and Desmos

00:54:08 Abigail Williams: See Saw, Screencastify, and Padlet are awesome resources (I don't use them currently, as I'm a para)

00:54:10 Elizabeth Neuendorff: I use Microsoft Teams Live meetings with Peardeck. This allows my students to have math discourse.

00:54:11 Sheila McCoy: zoom and google docs

00:54:14 Tiffany King: Thanks to some training from last week, I found out about Questions in Google Classroom. This is an awesome tool. Students can reply to their peers but wont see anyone else's response until it was submitted. Asked what they would do if they could be invisible for example, non content stuff for fun interaction.

00:54:14 Karen Campe: Remembering to ask students "how are you doing today" not just "here's today's math work"

00:54:15 Charles Weber: Google slides where students make their own memes

00:54:16 Stacy Beech: Google classroom, Email,

00:54:17 Jennifer Coleman: trust

00:54:23 Aaron McCoy: I am hoping to use Zoom, seesaw and flipgrid to allow Ss the ability to communicate with me and each other.

00:54:26 Terri Davis: We have many apps, but we have too many students that don't have digital access away from school.

00:54:26 Christine Tucker: Virtual Spirit Weeks and posting of students work without names

00:54:37 Kimberly Rimbey: Thank you, Chonda!!!

00:54:41 Leslie Hughes: Would love to hear how folks are keeping the kids connected if NOT connected digitally. :(Those babies are being left out.

00:54:45 Kristina Grannan: Google Classroom Streaming

00:54:57 Terri Davis: Agree with you, Leslie!!

00:54:59 Therese Arsenault: Phone calls, writing letters

00:55:01 Jennifer Coleman: facetime

00:55:07 JUDY DUNMIRE: We have teachers making weekly phone calls to talk to students who do not have digital access.

00:55:07 Leah Simon: I've been talking with some of my students on the phone vs using the internet.

00:55:08 Sabrina Lett: Braingenie, Get More Math

00:55:11 Kristin McLeod: I do a daily "attendance question" on our online platform with something not content related, today's was "What is your best harmless fun April Fools prank". Last week had things like "Which character in book or movie is most misunderstood"

00:55:12 Nancy Horowitz: How can students bring mathematics from their homes into the math online community? What math challenges can use home resources?

00:55:17 Kim Smith: Still trying to figure out how to reach learners without technology

00:55:22 Kimberly Rimbey: We contact every child by phone at least once per week in addition to online presence. That's how we keep track of our babies without tech.

00:55:30 Angela Torres: @Kime Smith - yes!

00:55:59 Sheryl Peterson: We have also done cahoots together on Zoom

00:56:01 Diana Volanti: We use ZOOM once a week to connect virtually with our students.

00:56:03 Amanda Jansen: I love that people are thinking about connecting with learners in ways such as phone calls and letters – wifi / internet access might not be available to all.

00:56:11 Philip Mojares: Communicating to both the parents and students through texting and emailing

00:56:38 Mary Takle: Great question!

00:57:07 Sheryl Peterson: I think a math talk/ story problem of the day would help build discourse to the online remote learning.

00:58:03 Deb Luther: Connections are social - interactions and discourse

00:58:17 JUDY DUNMIRE: Teachers are required to post "family friendly" goals prior to the work. Every reflection at the end of each section is required to reflect on the goal. We have teams that vet each task and try to vertically align across buildings so that all members of the family can work together.

00:58:51 Nancy Horowitz: There are routines that can be done together online that will touch all eight practices.

00:58:57 JUDY DUNMIRE: We are also setting expectations that teachers provide feedback questions all week to help their students reach a "4" by the end of each week on their assignments.

00:58:59 Chonda Long: Hey Ben!

00:59:07 Benjamin Sinwell: Hi y'all!

00:59:47 Chonda Long: Jen - Change to all panelists and attendees

00:59:58 Diana Volanti: Online teaching is more project based using current real world situations and applying them to the math concept(s) being taught.

01:00:07 Sheryl Peterson: Absolutely!

01:00:15 Jennifer Suh: IMPRESSIVE thinking BEN!!!!

01:00:34 Stephenia Courtney: I TOTALLY AGREE!

01:01:19 Tanasha Cockburn: This new norm will definitely make us think outside the classroom

01:01:21 Mark Phipps: I have more time to get to know my students now. We can talk about pets and siblings and other things that don't always fit into our days otherwise.

01:01:21 JUDY DUNMIRE: We are also using models shared through our news programs and governor's updates as a notice/wonder. This has been a great way to help students reason with mathematical models in a way that is meaningful. In our state, we are doing well, so it provides some hope in the midst of confusion for our students and families.

01:01:57 Deb Luther: google slides may help with virtual math walks -
01:02:16 Jennifer Suh: LOVE IT! CAthery what a wonderful message for us all!!!
01:02:20 Monica Tienda: Preach! Aside from the families who are actively teaching and learning are Issues of health and humanity—families who cannot (and should not) focus on school because the virus has affected them directly. I am there for them all, in whatever capacity I can be helpful 01:03:11 Chonda Long: Make sure when you make a comment in the chat box it is to "All panelists and attendees" 01:03:12 JUDY DUNMIRE: Our online modules have a routine that we hope will encourage collaboration at home and discourse with peers online.
01:03:27 Lorie Huff: Yes
01:03:29 Shannon Jones: Yes!
01:03:33 Shakiyya Bland: Love this reframing of “discourse” especially in virtual communities
01:03:45 Shannon Jones: Great recent podcast from Making Math Moments that Matter on this topic
01:04:17 Gricelda Monroy: quality vs quantity 01:04:36 Janie Merendino: have heard from many parents how overwhelmed they are at this time - many still work, parent duties plus now teaching!!! Many students are not getting the help at home so the equity gap is growing !!

01:05:16 Lorie Huff: Great ideas. We have to think and plan differently to address the needs of our students.
01:05:34 Gricelda Monroy: multi-modal responses, yessssss 01:05:37 Sheryl Peterson: This may push us to rethink and try new tools and activities.
01:06:35 Beth Kobett: I love this point. We can’t mess around asking questions that aren’t powerful and thoughtful 01:06:37 JUDY DUNMIRE: I’m trying to keep a perspective of planning for families with multiple parents working from home with multiple children - all sharing one device. If I can make a math lesson work for that family, then it’s a success.
01:06:45 Amanda Jansen: Cheesemonkey is Elizabeth Statmore!
01:06:54 Beth Kobett: Love this! I had this happen today!
01:07:02 Hong Pun: Appreciate the discussion about online pedagogy... synchronous versus asynchronous, what is effective, how to allow the thinkers and talkers to work together, etc.
01:07:04 Stephenia Courtney: I love that parents are actually engaging with their children on their assignments!
01:07:14 Benjamin Sinwell: Go Elizabeth!
01:07:53 Skip Fennell: So true regarding types of questions as related to synchronous or asynchronous format of the online effort.
01:08:22 Philip Mojares: Remote learning is interesting for me, to my students and their parents. I saw big participation from the parents trying to solve some of the problems I gave. Parents keep on communicating with me asking on how to solve a particular problem at 2AM. It blows me away :-) 01:08:38 JUDY DUNMIRE: ^^^ This!!! ♡
01:10:26 Chonda Long: www.nctm.org/freeresources

01:10:42 Terri Davis: Will we get these slides so we can explore these resources?
