00:48:08 Sandra Hert: when is it SAFE to share vs vulnerability

00:48:08 Robin White: yes
00:48:09 Cindy Bryant: yES
00:48:33 Stephenia Courtney: Someone is unmuted
00:48:36 Ann Fugere: To fix the feedback, you could mute everybody and then unmute only the people who need to talk
00:48:49 Robin White: I have been there.
00:48:57 Jenise Sexton: Thank you for sharing Andrew!!
00:49:05 Kimberly Rimbej: I LOVE how when you are part of someone else's vulnerable moment, you share a human experience that bonds you, even if you've just met.

00:49:23 Jenise Sexton: I agree Kimberly!
00:49:26 Swapna Mukhopadhyay: Is there a feedback loop?
00:49:31 Pamela Gavina: It's hard for me to talk about why I have been on paid administrative leave with potential new employers, but I need to talk about this in order to secure a teaching position and provide medical insurance for my family beyond July 2020.

00:51:42 Stephenia Courtney: Thank you for sharing!
00:51:49 Jeanne Webb: I wish it was that easy for me!
00:51:53 Yolanda Barreto: Thanks for sharing
00:52:06 Sharon Black-MacKinnon: Thank you for sharing
00:52:32 Gricelda Monroy: Same for me
00:52:51 Stephenia Courtney: yes
00:52:56 Laura Beth Snoop: I have plenty of students who definitely need to feel comfortable before they will share
00:53:01 Aida Kajs: I struggle a lot trying to strike a balance between vulnerability and maintaining boundaries with my high school students, being just out of college myself

00:53:40 Minh Ho: My culture did not encourage to have an opinion about things so to be able to express what I feel about anything is difficult.

00:53:43 Michelle Lo: I second that, Mark!

00:53:52 Yolanda Barreto: True

00:53:57 Christina Roe: I agree!

00:53:59 Sharon Black-MacKinnon: I agree with you

00:54:00 Terri Davis: I agree!

00:54:02 Sandra Hert: I can take care of others and ask about them, but sometimes I want to be asked how I feel

00:54:03 LaKeasia Hammond: im afraid to

00:54:04 Cindy Bryant: "Uncomfortable sharing of space" is so true for many.

00:54:07 Jennifer Suh: I love your honesty and sensitivity!

00:54:11 LA VERNE MITCHELL: I agree with you, Mark.

00:54:12 Brenda Callaway: I think it starts with a check-in with your students.

00:54:14 Stephenia Courtney: So TRUE!

00:54:19 Stacie Parham: The webinar last night did a great job of connecting this time to math and teaching.

00:54:22 KaYin Leung: agree

00:54:24 Sharon Black-MacKinnon: especially those students who are not in a loving environment

00:54:31 C. Robertson: Yes, home calls can be awkward, with parents and students....

00:54:32 Lawrenceia Cole: so true, because we don't have the answers

00:54:39 Brenda Callaway: knowledge is powerful

00:54:45 C. Robertson: Most have been very kind

00:54:45 Shakiyya Bland: Thank you, Mark, for considering the social emotional and familial impact of mathematical conversations centered around the current data

00:55:16 Mark Phipps (Mesa, AZ): Some know people who are sick and some do not.

00:55:21 Terri Davis: It's still overwhelming to me, so I'm not ready to broach the topic with young people!

00:55:31 Olivia Wissinger: Due to equity issues too, a lot of schools are even preventing teachers from being able to even talk to their students.

00:55:33 Yolanda Barreto: One of my students made a video of how does he feels. He said that every body was going to die. He is a first grader student. I feel so sad for them.

00:55:35 June Millacci: There is an opportunity for prediction, estimation but those predictions and estimations show danger and we don't want to frighten students of different environments.

00:55:36 Mark Phipps (Mesa, AZ): Some would be fascinated that in a week we will have 2M cases others would be horrified.

00:55:44 Stephenia Courtney: I email all 140 students everyday. Some of them respond but just letting them know that you are available is what has worked best for me.

00:55:47 Jeanne Webb: Hopefully soon we'll be able to look at the math closely... this is over!

00:55:53 Brenda Callaway: Start with the toilet paper problem...make it light, get them talking. Compare different sizes of TP...and in that process, talk about are you okay. Do you feel safe? Do you have what you need?

00:55:56 Angela Gonzalez: yesterday's meeting was a lot to take mathematically

00:56:33 June Millacci: We do learn a lot from testimony.

00:56:42 Yolanda Barreto: I cheers my students every day.

00:57:16 Stephenia Courtney: nice Yolanda

00:57:31 Yolanda Barreto: Thanks

00:57:43 PAVNEET BHARAJ: Well said

00:57:47 Beth Kobett: @brenda Callaway - yes begin with the toilet paper task. :)

00:58:06 Abigail Williams: well said!

00:58:42 Liz Hunt: I love Brene Brown's idea that it's important to "share with those people who have earned the right to hear your story"!

00:58:50 Beth Kobett: With the shades down

00:58:58 June Millacci: Wow, I like this analogy of windows & mirrors.

00:59:01 Angela Gonzalez: Love that Liz

00:59:36 Meaghan McIntyre: great analogy

01:00:32 Emily Kavanagh: Windows and mirrors is the perfect way to say it

01:00:38 Gricelda Monroy: I kinda felt like an outsider most of my life

01:00:57 Tricia Bowling Bryant: But that happens all the time in the school house

01:01:01 Mark Phipps (Mesa, AZ): I did open up a little before they closed schools. During spring break at our last volleyball practice before things got hyperfocus I taught 40 girls about proper handwashing and social distancing. How to high-five from a distance with pointing and hand clapping and even a subtle nod. It felt so awkward with the parents watching, but I felt obligated to make a difference in my last moments before they cancelled everything.

01:01:06 Christine Casiere: Me too, Gricelda

01:01:14 Nadia Messadi: @Chonda can we get a certificate from listening to a recorded webinar?

01:01:34 Kimberly Rimbe: That's amazing, Mark!

01:01:37 Gricelda Monroy: Wow Christina

01:01:50 Nicole Dollar: people like to see people fail that way they dont have to feel their own insecurities and feel better about themselves.. my experiences

01:01:59 Sophia Allyn: I will be a first year teacher this upcoming school year and this pandemic is very frightening.

01:02:11 KaYin Leung: yes

01:02:15 Cindy Bryant: Buckets are running low, very well said.

01:02:15 KaYin Leung: right

01:02:20 Crystal Morton: Absolutely! Self-care is a non-negotiable.

01:02:26 Beth Kobett: You will be great @Sophia!

01:02:34 Christine Casiere: But I get a different perspective, Gricelda. I think it's ok.

01:02:35 Stephenia Courtney: Some of us have a hole in our bucket.

01:02:45 Gricelda Monroy: Good luck Sophia 01:02:49 Yolanda Barreto: It is not easy specially when your family is in another country.
01:02:56 Tricia Bowling Bryant: I love what you are saying but if the people around you professional are not kind 01:02:57 Gricelda Monroy: Thank you Christina :)
01:03:03 Sophia Allyn: Thank you BK and Gricelda! <3
01:03:08 UmaDevi Viswanathan: Yes it is true
01:03:10 Angela Tseng: How is vulnerability selfish?
01:03:11 Trena Wilkerson: Sophia find you community and support –we all need this on this journey.
01:03:13 Sue Doersam: I'm a social creature and my co workers are who I'm most social with, it's hard to not see them every day and the kids I work with too.
I miss them all Soo much 🥺
01:03:25 Rachael Welder: self care is an act of altruism
01:03:28 Robin White: Sophia, you will be amazed at just how much strength you can get from and give to your students..
01:03:29 Sophia Allyn: Thank you Trena!
01:03:30 Lawrenceia Cole: its not weird, its true
01:03:33 Linda Thommen: That makes perfect sense.
01:03:38 June Millacci: Agree
01:03:44 Jenise Sexton: It did tonight Laila!!
01:03:50 Yolanda Barreto: I bet all of us miss our students
01:03:57 Cindy Bryant: Sophia, thank you for sharing.
01:04:04 LA VERNE MITCHELL: In the context you gave, “selfish” seems to mean being about self-care, not self-centered
01:04:13 Cindy Bryant: Vulnerability is not the same thing as transparency.
01:04:17 Rachael Welder: you need to put on your own oxygen mask before assisting others
01:04:18 Angela Tseng: What's the difference?
01:04:29 Beth Kobett: Oh My gosh- seeing all these people send my beginning teachers love. Seriously so appreciative to all of you!
01:04:35 Emily Kavanagh: I definitely need to be better about self-care. I am a solo parent to a 2 year old because my husband passed in December. It is all about my daughter all the time.
01:04:39 Terri Davis: Yes, Rachael!
01:04:58 Yolanda Barreto: sorry for your lost 💔

01:05:14 Nadia Messadi: what is the difference?
01:05:20 Abigail Williams: I never thought about it in that way, but you are very right!
01:05:21 Crystal Morton: @Emily Sorry for your loss.
01:05:25 Stephenia Courtney: Sorry for loss Emily!
01:05:45 Sandra Hert: Emily do you have support/people?
01:05:47 Nadia Messadi: LOL
01:05:57 Cindy Bryant: Emily, sorry for your loss. It's normal to focused on your daughter. We are all rooting for you.
01:06:04 Yvelle Thompson: Much love to you Emily. So sorry for your loss

01:06:37 June Millacci: maybe vulnerability is just being available and supportive.

01:06:46 Angela Tseng: ^

01:06:46 Regina Westlake: ditto

01:06:47 June Millacci: not just but part

01:06:47 Cindy Bryant: Vulnerability makes us look and feel like human beings.

01:07:11 Nadia Messadi: I'm sorry for your loss Emily

01:07:43 Amanda McDonough: Brene Brown is the best!

01:08:44 Nadia Messadi: CBS just had a 60 minutes piece about her

01:08:45 Regen Lorden: i love brene brown!
