

00:16:10 Desiree Harrison: Great to see everyone!
00:16:17 Brit Seward: Cleveland, Ohio. School Improvement Representative.
00:16:19 Carol Matsumoto: Hi Desiree from Winnipeg
00:16:25 Karen Virga: from Metairie, Louisiana - 6th and 7th grade teacher
00:16:31 Ken Krehbiel: Hello Everyone, from Washington, D.C. I'm on NCTM staff.
00:16:38 Jayme Lorenz: Hello from Fairfax, VA!
00:16:38 Carol Matsumoto: Hi Ken
00:16:49 Brit Seward: Yes K-12
00:16:51 Dana McDonald: From Riverton, Wyoming Math Intervention
00:16:56 Margaret Dreier: Writing and Math Specialist joining from Hudson River Valley, NY
00:16:58 Monica De Leon: Sacramento, CA; Math Intervention Specialist K-6
00:16:58 Trena Wilkerson: HI Trena from Texas (but in Phoenix right now!) -math teacher educator
00:17:01 Brit Seward: I am the math specialist on our team
00:17:11 Carol Matsumoto: Hi Trena
00:17:30 Susan Bardenhagen: Manassas, Virginia, 35 miles SW of DC. It was nearly 70 degrees today. I am a founding member of a 32 year NCTM regional affiliate.
00:17:34 Trena Wilkerson: HI Carol-Hi everyone!
00:17:52 Trena Wilkerson: That is great @Susan!
00:19:05 Carol Matsumoto: Hi Kevin
00:19:05 Roberta Parks: Roberta Parks - Hello from Arkansas!! I teach future elementary teachers.
00:20:22 Kevin Dykema: Hi Carol!
00:25:34 Jayme Lorenz:

00:30:57 Brit Seward: She was so excited when she recognized that she could make more.
00:31:02 Roberta Parks: Does the student think that the pants and shirt must be a different color?
00:31:17 Brit Seward: ^^^Agreed
00:31:29 Ann Zito: She matched 3 blue pants and 3 green pants
00:31:50 Brit Seward: She though about matching the pants but not matching the shirts
00:33:49 Roberta Parks: How old is this student?
00:33:55 Desiree Harrison: She's 6
00:34:48 Brit Seward: She is checking her work as she goes along. She also realized she can use the same color shirt and pants
00:35:01 Roberta Parks: I notice that she is checking
00:35:14 Karen Virga: so many opportunities for expanding her thoughts
00:37:01 Brit Seward: Look at that perserverance! she wasn't discouraged by not getting all the combinations. She seemed to like the challenge
00:37:16 Roberta Parks: Did she ever realize that she needed to use the blue shirt 4 times if she has 4 different colors of pants?
00:37:41 Brit Seward: More thinking out loud in the latter video
00:38:13 Carol Matsumoto: I wonder if as she does this again if she would decide on a strategy.
00:38:23 Brit Seward: ^^^Agreed

00:38:57 Karen Virga: I appreciate the idea to bring more students. Great chance for rich conversation between the students.

00:40:31 Brit Seward: I could offer it as a resource to the teachers I work with. They ask about engaging things to do during small group. I can see this working for that

00:41:25 Karen Virga: As a teacher in 6th and 7th grades, I love building the foundation at this level that will lead to combinations and permutations as the students are older.

00:41:26 Ann Zito: I may bring this to 3rd teachers to offer their students and see if they make the connection to multiplication

00:41:31 Trena Wilkerson: Great resource to share with our preservice teachers, too!

00:42:03 Susan Bardenhagen: It encourages productive discourse. The interactive format allows for individual students to work independently.

00:43:27 Trena Wilkerson: Thank you for sharing this great resource and opportunity for reflecting on how to use.

00:43:54 Brit Seward: Thank you for sharing this resource

00:44:00 Carol Matsumoto: Thanks Desiree. Great seeing you.

00:44:07 Kevin Dykema: Thanks, Desiree!

00:44:50 Roberta Parks: Thanks for sharing!
